Tokyo Commanders Delaying All-Out Assault On American Troops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—Japanese planes today were reported dropping incendiary bombs on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's installations on Bataan peninsula apparently in an effort to wipe out the defenders' ammunition dumps and supplies.

The War department in a communique stated there was little activity on Bataan except for "positional" fighting between front line troops facing each other from fox holes and trenches.

The full in general activity in the Philippines indicated that the Japanese still do not consider themselves in a position to attack MacArthur with full force despite their estimated 10-to-1 superiority in manpower.

MacArthur in reporting the use of incendiaries, stated the enemy is employing white phosphorus. This was taken to mean that the Japanese are putting these bombs to double use. Phosphorus fires give off much more smoke than those set by thermite, the usual incendiary filler, and thus help set up a smoke screen.

Also, it was pointed out that phosphorus inflicts much worse burns when employed against troops.

STATE TO MAKE RT. 23 CHANGES IN WAVERLY, O.

A bid letting scheduled by the state highway department for February 25 includes rerouting and repavement with concrete of U. S. 23 through Waverly.

The proposed improvement will increase the highway's importance as a military road. It calls for two mile of pavement 47 feet wide in Waverly and 24 feet wide on the northern approach, rerouting in the village to eliminate four right angle turns, and the improvement to connect with four miles of continuous concrete completed last year south of the village.

Churchill Cuts Down His Cabinet

Beaverbrook Drops Out To Come To U. S.; Critics Are Pleased

LONDON, Feb. 20—Streamlining his war cabinet to a body of seven men, Prime Minister Winston Churchill yielded today to the clamor of criticism against his government and its conduct of the war.

On the whole the press received the changes enthusiastically, although the London Daily Express pointed out that Churchill "has not gone all the way that his critics demanded." But the Express added:

"He has met them squarely and given them a fair deal." Churchill remained at the helm in the combined posts of prime minister and minister of defense. But sweeping changes nevertheless were carried out.

Lord Beaverbrook resigned as minister of production while Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Russia, and Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, war supply expert who has been stationed in the middle east, were appointed to key posts.

Lord Beaverbrook will go to the United States as British representative to work on the United Nations' project of pooling their resources in the war against the axis powers.

The London Daily Herald said that "not much has been conceded to advocates of a cabinet whose members except as coordinators would be entirely free from day-to-day work in their departments, nor has Churchill consented to lighten his own load by delegating."

BATAVIA, Feb. 20—A steady stream of troops and civilians continued to arrive in Batavia from Singapore today after crossing the straits in yachts, sampans and other small craft.

Some evacuees, including newspaper men, got to Batavia in round-about ways. One group left Singapore a week ago today aboard a ship which was heavily bombed. The party landed on a small island in one of the ship's small boats, obtained a junk and sailed to Sumatra.

After landing at the mouth of a river they traveled overland where they met Dutch troops who escorted them and British forces to North Sumatra. There they boarded a warship which took them to Batavia.

Communique Hints Fighting Rages In Southwest City Of Kharkov

MOSCOW, Feb. 20—Fighting raged with unabated violence on the northwestern Russian front today as the Nazis counter-attacked—heavily supported by tanks—only to be repelled by Red army blows.

The Moscow radio said that the enemy was constantly being rolled back to the west under the thunderous Soviet offensive.

Late dispatches from the front reported the Russian recapture of Kresty, 65 miles northwest of Smolensk, in a further extension of the northern arm of the Soviet pincers that is gradually closing around the Nazi base at Smolensk.

The Moscow radio said recapture of Kresty means the two prongs of the Russian drive north and south of Smolensk are now only 150 miles apart. Huge German units are gradually being squeezed in this vast but narrowing Russian trap.

Other reports said Nazi losses on all fronts were extremely heavy in the last 24 hours.

On the southwestern front, it was reported, the Russians pressed forward into the suburbs of a "large locality" and street fighting was in progress, with the enemy sustaining heavy losses.

(Editor's Note: While the Soviet dispatch did not say so, this "large locality" might be Kharkov, industrial center of the Donetz basin and Russia's "Pittsburgh." Fighting has been in progress around Kharkov for weeks.)

The Moscow radio said the Russian air force destroyed 28 enemy guns and 62 trucks and killed 600 enemy soldiers on the southwestern front.

FEDERAL LABOR OFFICIAL ACTS AT PORTSMOUTH

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 20—Assignment of Federal Labor Conciliator J. L. Connor, of Washington, to meet union and company officials blocking settlement of the four-week-old strike at the Selby shoe company's Portsmouth plant was announced today. The conference was called for Saturday afternoon.

Meanwhile, a poll of 2,400 production workers at the plant was started by nine local public organizations, known as Allied Organizations, in an effort to determine how many were willing to return to work under the same working conditions and wages existing before the strike was called by the CIO's United Shoe Workers.

Receipt of the ballots brought a vehement denunciation from strikers against the organization's "interference in the strike."

George Martin, national representative of the union, and Emerson Pence, president of the Selby union local, charged methods employed by the allied organizations "are responsible for the low wage conditions in Portsmouth."

The strikers are seeking a five percent wage increase and union recognition.

Daytonite's 27-Day Fast Ended By Order Of Court

DAYTON, Feb. 20—The 27-day fast that Ralph Bowser undertook "at command of God" when he was jailed for failure to keep his children in school was ended today by forcible feeding imposed by Dayton State hospital officials.

However, at the Dayton workhouse, Sherman Hypes, who was converted to fasting by Bowser, went into the 22nd day of his hunger strike.

The feeding of Bowser was ordered by Probate Judge William C. Wiseman and carried out by Dr. E. L. Hooper, hospital superintendent.

Judge Wiseman said that Bowser's refusal to eat or his failure to send his children to school because they would be vaccinated, did not indicate a mental weakness, but that other factors made him anti-social and gave him delusions of grandeur.

Dr. Hooper said the man put up no physical resistance when he was fed and so far has been a model patient. He and Judge Wiseman said they thought the treatment would benefit both Bowser and his family, including his wife, Marguerite, who has been confined for observation.

Hypes, who is serving a term for keeping pigs in a residential zone in the village of Pymont, has been isolated from other workhouse inmates and it is hoped he will soon give up his fast now that Bowser and he are widely separated. He did not undertake the fast for religious reasons.

CONTINUED COLD WAVE PREDICTED FOR OHIO AREA

By International News Service
No immediate relief was in sight today as Ohioans shivered in the second day of a cold wave which has sent the mercury plummeting to readings 20 to 30 degrees below freezing.

While the lows recorded early this morning averaged four or five degrees higher than those reported yesterday, the forecast was for continued cold throughout the state.

Snow flurries predicted generally over most areas threatened to make highway conditions still worse. The state highway department reported roads in the vicinities of New Lexington, Zanesville, Coshocton, Mansfield, Wooster, Ashland, Norwalk, Cleveland, Medina and Painesville "slippery in spots," and that Route 77 in Coshocton county north of Blainesville is covered with water, although traffic was being maintained.

Overcast skies which have protected the southern part of the state to a degree may spread northward and provide some relief, meteorologists said, but warned that such relief would be slight.

The five-degree readings recorded at Akron and Columbus were the lowest officially recorded by any of the metropolitan weather bureaus. Other lows for today were seven degrees at Cleveland and Dayton; 13 at the river station at Marietta, and 14 at Cincinnati.

The forecast predicted snow flurries today and in southeast portion tonight, with continued cold weather in store.

Calcutta Says Threat Against Indian Ocean Region Caused By Singapore Fall; Foe's Warships In Area

BATAVIA, Feb. 20—Japanese troops invaded the island of Bali today and touched off a major battle that will settle the fate of the Dutch East Indies.

American ships and planes struck back in fury, but late tonight the Dutch news agency, Aneta, received word that land forces on Bali were offering strong resistance to the invaders, indicating that sea and air efforts to prevent attempted landings on the island had failed.

BY LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service War Editor

With American air power and troop reinforcements now arrayed against them in the southwest Pacific, Japan today stepped up her stabbing and feinting attacks in menacing Java, Australia, Burma and the vast territory inhabited by India's teeming millions.

Most spectacular of the enemy's far-flung activities was an attempt to put an invasion force ashore on the island of Bali, just off the eastern tip of Java where American and other United Nations reinforcements are preparing for an assault in force by the Japanese.

Outcome of the invasion attempt on Bali was obscure, but the enemy was given a foretaste of the offensive now building against him in a smashing attack by United Nations bombing planes which ripped into the Jap invasion forces off the shores of Bali. Three direct bomb hits were scored on one or more enemy cruisers, two direct hits smashed onto Jap transports, and eight near-misses rocked a Jap destroyer escorting the invasion convoy. Direct hits with lighter bombs also were made on a cruiser and another transport. In addition, it was disclosed that the Japs lost five bomber and fighter planes in their raids on Surabaya, in Java, yesterday and Wednesday.

Despite these successes, there still was no word on whether any of the Jap invasion troops had succeeded in gaining a foothold on Bali. An invasion of this island would be an obvious prelude to an attempt to storm the island of Java, headquarters of the United Nations high command in this area.

In the Philippines, constantly shifting battles of position were taking place between American and Japanese forces but the expected major battle has yet to be joined. The Japs continued jockeying for points from which to launch their all-out assault and in addition sought to destroy American supplies behind the lines by dropping incendiary bombs.

Time Factor Vital

The veritable eruption of Jap offensive activity in the Far East—the seemingly unrelated thrusts to the south, the east and the west—was proof that Japan is anxiously aware now of the time factor that is working against her and has permitted arrival of American and other reinforcements on the island of Java.

So rapidly did developments occur during the day that it was difficult to evaluate the degree of gravity of the various threats. The developments, in brief, were: Tokyo boasted that Jap invading forces have been put ashore on Timor island, only 400 miles from Port Darwin on the northern Australian coast which was heavily bombed by two waves of Jap air raiders yesterday. There was no confirmation in any other source of the Tokyo claim but, if true, it measurably increases the menace to Australia and gives the Japs another stepping stone for

Despite these successes, there still was no word on whether any of the Jap invasion troops had succeeded in gaining a foothold on Bali. An invasion of this island would be an obvious prelude to an attempt to storm the island of Java, headquarters of the United Nations high command in this area.

In the Philippines, constantly shifting battles of position were taking place between American and Japanese forces but the expected major battle has yet to be joined. The Japs continued jockeying for points from which to launch their all-out assault and in addition sought to destroy American supplies behind the lines by dropping incendiary bombs.

Time Factor Vital

The veritable eruption of Jap offensive activity in the Far East—the seemingly unrelated thrusts to the south, the east and the west—was proof that Japan is anxiously aware now of the time factor that is working against her and that has permitted arrival of American and other reinforcements on the island of Java.

So rapidly did developments occur during the day that it was difficult to evaluate the degree of gravity of the various threats. The developments, in brief, were: Tokyo boasted that Jap invading forces have been put ashore on Timor island, only 400 miles from Port Darwin on the northern Australian coast which was heavily bombed by two waves of Jap air raiders yesterday. There was no confirmation in any other source of the Tokyo claim but, if true, it measurably increases the menace to Australia and gives the Japs another stepping stone for (Continued on Page Eight)

Boy Scouts To Collect Old Scrap For Defense

Campaign Scheduled For Saturday In City And County District

Boy Scouts of Circleville and Pickaway county will hold their scrap metal collection Saturday and during the day Scouts will canvass the district in search of old iron or scrap of any kind.

The program is devised to provide funds with which scouts of the local community may finance their community defense program.

Elmer Stebelton, district scout commissioner, said the city and county had been divided into service areas and that each troop would locate a place within its area where the metal could be stored until it could be sold to a local scrap dealer. Troop 158 of the American Legion has been assigned to the area south of Mill street. Troop 205 of the First Presbyterian church will function in the area between Mill street and Main street and Troop 107 of the First Methodist church will service the city north of Main street.

In the county the six troops will service the communities in which they are located and the scrap metal collection will be within those areas.

Money secured from the sale of the scrap will be used to buy defense equipment for scouts, such as first aid supplies.

Instruction Given

Scoutmasters of the city and county now are engaged in a six months defense program of their troops and are instructing their scouts in first aid, messenger service and other duties vital to the defense of the community. All scoutmasters in the city and county have been issued "War Service Manuals" containing suggested programs for defense training.

Additional troops are being organized in the county with those at Perry township and at Ashville already formed. Scout leaders hope that through the new war time program the community may boost its enrollment from 135 to twice that number.

The district commissioner announced Friday that a complete messenger service for the city was being planned among the Scoutmasters of the city and that when the program was organized it would be offered to the defense council.

In another way scouts will offer their services to the community Saturday when they meet at Memorial hall at 1 p. m. for a house to house canvass in the area south of Franklin street.

Books collected through the canvass will be turned over to the Victory Book committee and sent to Army, Navy and Marine camp libraries.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20—Mexican secret service men today confiscated 38 machine guns, 10 cases of rifles and scores of pistols found in a search of the former Japanese legation, and intended, according to police, for use in a "death or glory" stand against Mexican authorities.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

NO. 37 DEDUCTION FOR INTEREST

Amounts paid or accrued within the taxable year 1941 as interest on indebtedness are deductible, with certain exceptions, from gross income in determining net income. Deductible items include interest on borrowed money to defray personal expenses, and on money borrowed for the purchase of real or personal property. If a person owes money on a lien or mortgage note on his home, the amount of the interest may be deducted. Indebtedness, however, need not be evidenced by lien, judgment, or mortgage to make the interest on it deductible. Frequently indebtedness is evidenced only by a note.

Interest paid on indebtedness incurred in the purchase of obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originally subscribed for by the taxpayer), the interest upon which is wholly exempt from Federal income tax, is not deductible.

Interest paid on behalf of another where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payor is not deductible by the payor. In such cases the amount is the same as a gift.

As interest paid is deductible, so interest received is taxable (except interest on obligations of a state, territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or possessions of the United States; obligations of the United States issued prior to March 1, 1941, to the extent provided in the Acts authorizing the issuance thereof; or obligations issued prior to March 1, 1941, of a corporation organized under Act of Congress if such corporation is an instrumentality of the United States). All such amounts, including interest received on bank and savings deposits, must be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income.

Discount on bonds is ordinarily income the same as interest. Under a new provision of the Revenue Act of 1941, a taxpayer reporting his income on the cash receipts and disbursements basis owning any noninterest-bearing obligation issued at a discount and redeemable for fixed amounts increasing at stated intervals, may at his election made in his return for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1940, treat the increase in the redemption price of such obligation occurring in the taxable year as income received in such year, except that in the return in which the election is made the taxpayer must include all such increase, if any, occurring between the date of the acquisition of such obligation and the first day of the taxable year for which the election is made.

Ashville And Walnut Get Baptism Tonight In Three-Game Card

Upset of New Holland's Bulldogs by their most traditional rival, Perry township; a near-defeat for Washington's favored quintet by an underdog Jackson township crew, and victories for Darby over Williamsport and Monroe over Saltcreek marked the first night of the annual "Pickaway county basketball tournament Thursday in the Perry township school gymnasium.

Results were: Washington 32, Jackson 31, overtime.

Perry 42, New Holland 38, overtime.

Darby 38, Williamsport 30.

Monroe 29, Saltcreek 19.

The first night crowd was not up to expectations, but tourney managers are taking into consideration the ban on tire sales and the decision of many motorists to save their money for the day after tomorrow. The fact that many young men who would be seeing basketball games are in the Army. However, the crowd was a good one, and an interested one. The greater portion of it remained even though the final game was not completed until after midnight.

The upset that had the gymnasium in a turmoil was Perry's victory over the New Holland lads in an overtime joust that saw Glen Frost and Jim Steele come through with buckets to break a 38-38 deadlock.

Perry made the crowd sit up and take notice when it started like a whirlwind to grab nine points before New Holland broke the ice. Then the Bulldogs started scoring and pulled up to five to nine and then went ahead by a 14-10 count. Perry took the advantage again 17-14, and from that time on the lead sawsaw with New Holland being on the top side most of the way.

Bulldogs In Lead

The Bulldogs grabbed a 31-26 edge early in the fourth period and led 36-30 with only three minutes to play. Candy Quisenberry started hitting for Perry, adding four quick points, and when New Holland held a 38-34 lead, Gerhardt and Steele pumped in buckets to deadlock it.

Just as the game ended in a 38-tie, little Kenny Pearce, New Holland freshman, was fouled and had a chance to win a spot in the sun with a free toss that would have won the game. The little fellow, who was brilliant every minute he was in the game, tried his best, but the leather struck the side of the hoop and twisted off.

Frost's bucket broke the tie and Steele's clinched it in the overtime.

Jackson township, paced by Junior Bumgarner and Donald Hul'e, gave Washington a battle royal and came within an ace of knocking off the victory, losing 31-32 in an overtime. The score was close the whole way, but Jackson held a 26-22 lead as the last quarter started.

Wertman Hits Twice

Two buckets by Wertman, three points by Rife and one by Bolender gave Washington a tie at the end of the game. Wertman's shots being the important ones since they boosted Washington from 26 to 30.

In the overtime, Rife scored a bucket from under the net after taking a long pass. A free throw by Hul'e failed to tie it.

Ability of Paul Brobst, Washington captain, to hold Bumgarner down in the last half gave Washington the victory. Bumgarner, who had been ill for several days before the tournament, hit four buckets in the first half, but Brobst held him to one in the last two frames.

Darby put a smooth team on the court and had little trouble turning back Williamsport, 38-30. Superior height under both nets kept the Deer Creek lads at bay, while Tracy and Liff hit the hoop from numerous angles.

Graessle, capable Darby center, spent much of the time on the bench because of illness.

Darby held a 17-13 lead at half-time, then moved ahead 34-21 at the end of the third quarter. Williamsport moved closer in the final canto but couldn't catch up.

Harold Willoughby was the difference between Monroe and Saltcreek, the brilliant cager getting 16 points, playing both ends of the court and doing plenty of passing. Monroe won the ball game 28-19 after trailing 5 to 12 a half-time.

With the 7 o'clock "gas station curfew" spreading, we may yet have a curfew for the boys and girls.

So many people have no faith! Millions of us lately, in the sweetest country on earth, have been afraid there wouldn't ever be any more sugar.

Ray Robinson To Take On Berger In Ring Tilt

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Sugar Kid, dancing Ray Robinson, goes to the post once again here tonight and the wise guys are laying 3-1 he romps home with his 28th consecutive ring victory at the expense of Maxie Berger, also of New York, in a 12-round shindig at Madison Square Garden.

Mr. Robinson is the outstanding prospect developed since Henry Armstrong zoomed out of a Los Angeles headline to fame as the first man in history to hold three world's boxing championships at one time.

Ray, who is called Sugar probably because he has sweetened the bankrolls of his friends ever since the first day he drew on those lethal leather mittens, has not been beaten in exactly 116 fights!

This is believed to be the longest streak in modern ring history. The dancing colored boy won 89 in a row as an amateur before running amok through the professional ranks. He would be the world's welterweight champion today if it were only possible to get Freddie (Red) Cochrane out of the Navy long enough to put his 147 pound crown on the line.

Boxing veterans are unanimous in that opinion since they watched Ray whip the much more experienced Fritz Zivic, then come back to stop Zivic in an eagerly-awaited return match.

If Robinson shows the same superlative form he displayed in the second Zivic fight he still stop Berger in the late rounds. Maxie, though no pushover, does not figure to stand up under Ray's hooks to the head, after a careful body massaging.

TRIO OF INDIAN STARS UNSIGNED AS DRILL NEARS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—Jeff Heath, Joe Heving and Gerald Walker aren't termed holdouts yet but they have only a few more days to get their signed contracts into the Cleveland Indians' business office before they fall into that classification, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh said today.

Heving, 37, a pitcher, had a disappointing season in the eyes of the Tribe management and his salary for 1942 was reportedly slashed from $7,500 to $5,000. He has until Monday, reporting date for batterymen at the Clearwater (Fla.) training camp, to accept terms.

Walker, 33, outfielder who hit only 283 last season, is said to have received a pay cut from $14,000 in 1941 to $10,000 for this year. Walker has until Wednesday, February 25, reporting date for the second squad, before he can really be termed a holdout.

Sluggish Heath, the only Indian besides Lou Boudreau whose contract contained a substantial pay raise, has not yet commented on the second offer the Tribe made.

Bob Frierson, outfielder who signed Wednesday, has been optioned to Wilkes-Barre, Peckinpaugh said, and will not go south with the Indians.

Sluggish Heath, the only Indian besides Lou Boudreau whose contract contained a substantial pay raise, has not yet commented on the second offer the Tribe made.

Bob Frierson, outfielder who signed Wednesday, has been optioned to Wilkes-Barre, Peckinpaugh said, and will not go south with the Indians.

BUCKS TO PLAY ILLINOIS SQUAD AT CHAMPAIGN

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—With Illinois virtually assured of the Big Ten basketball championship, the tight scramble for the four remaining first division berths will move forward on three fronts tomorrow night.

The pace-setting Illini will go after their tenth victory in 11 conference games when they play host to the lowly Buckeyes of Ohio State at Champaign. The Bucks definitely are out of the first division fight, however, and are conceded a chance of upsetting Illinois only because such things occasionally happen in basketball.

In the three games which could be major factors in the first division jockeying, Wisconsin's Badgers will entertain the disappointing Wildcats of Northwestern; Michigan will play Iowa on the Hawkeye court, and Purdue will come to the midway to abuse Chicago's hapless Maroons.

At present, Wisconsin, Iowa and Purdue are in a three-way tie for fourth place, each team having won six of 10 conference games. The Indiana Hoosiers, who turned a trick eight other Big Ten teams have failed to do when they upset Illinois, are in the second spot with eight victories and three defeats. Minnesota is in third with eight wins and four losses.

CAPITAL IN TIE WITH MT. UNION FOR LOOP LEAD

By International News Service
Capital today shared the top berth in the Ohio Conference basketball race with Mt. Union by rallying in the final quarter to down a fighting Heidelberg quintet last night, 45 to 41.

Garnering their 11th victory against one defeat, the Lutherans pulled their title chestnuts out of the fire by scoring 14 points in the third period against six for the Student Princes. Heidelberg led 10-6 at the end of the first quarter and 25-22 at the mid-way mark.

Bob Geist, lanky Lutheran center, paced his teammates by meshing 16 points, while Kalish helped with 12. With only one remaining loop contest against Ohio Northern, Capital looms as a possible crown holder.

Muskingum, battling for second division honors, was forced to the limit to beat Denison, 45 to 39. The Muskies trailed the Big Red in the last six minutes but Center McDowell, got red-hot and sunk four field goals in a row in the second half. Holtsclaw led the pace by meshing 17 to McDowell's 11.

Ohio university, in another last minute fight, romped over Marietta, 57 to 46, with Bobcat center Pete Lalick netting 18 points.

University of Dayton's Flyers set a new record for their school by defeating the Wittenberg Lutherans, 55 to 50, in a tough struggle. The Flyers scored their 12th win of the season in 15 starts to better the mark of the 1927-28 quintet which won 11 and lost five.

Ray Robinson To Take On Berger In Ring Tilt

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Sugar Kid, dancing Ray Robinson, goes to the post once again here tonight and the wise guys are laying 3-1 he romps home with his 28th consecutive ring victory at the expense of Maxie Berger, also of New York, in a 12-round shindig at Madison Square garden.

Mr. Robinson is the outstanding prospect developed since Henry Armstrong zoomed out of a Los Angeles breadline to fame as the first man in history to hold three world's boxing championships at one time.

Ray, who is called Sugar probably because he has sweetened the bankrolls of his friends ever since the first day he drew on those lethal leather mittens, has not been beaten in exactly 116 fights!

This is believed to be the longest streak in modern ring history. The dancing colored boy won 89 in a row as an amateur before running amok through the professional ranks. He would be the world's welterweight champion today if it were only possible to get Freddie (Red) Cochrane out of the Navy long enough to put his 147 pound crown on the line.

Boxing veterans are unanimous in that opinion since they watched Ray whip the much more experienced Fritz Zivic, then come back to stop Zivic in an eagerly-awaited return match.

If Robinson shows the same superlative form he displayed in the second Zivic fight he still stop Berger in the late rounds. Maxie, though no pushover, does not figure to stand up under Ray's hooks to the head, after a careful body massaging.

TIGERS INVADE M'CLAIN COURT

Red And Black Out After Victory In SCO Loop; Gate Foo's Star

Circleville high Tigers travel to Greenfield McClain Friday night to take on Red Armstrong's South Central Ohio league champions. The Tigers will be gunning for a victory over McClain, a quintet which is unbeaten this year in SCO competition.

The big thorn in the side of all opponents this year has been Don Grate, but Armstrong has built a strong supporting cast that has been adding some points to the usually big total scored by the tall boy.

Lineups are expected to be:
Circleville F Greenfield
Valentine F Davis
Carr F Newell
Jackson C Grate
Geib G Orr
Moorehead G Robinson

Referee: Grandle, University of Cincinnati.
Reserve teams are scheduled for a preliminary at 7:15.
Greenfield won a 29-21 game here earlier in the season.

TRIO OF INDIAN STARS UNSIGNED AS DRILL NEARS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—Jeff Heath, Joe Heving and Gerald Walker aren't termed holdouts yet but they have only a few more days to get their signed contracts into the Cleveland Indians' business office before they fall into that classification, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh said today.

Heving, 37, a pitcher, had a disappointing season in the eyes of the Tribe management and his salary for 1942 was reportedly slashed from $7,500 to $5,000. He has until Monday, reporting date for batterymen at the Clearwater (Fla.) training camp, to accept terms.

Walker, 33, outfielder who hit only .253 last season, is said to have received a pay cut from $14,000 in 1941 to $10,000 for this year. Walker has until Wednesday, February 25, reporting date for the second squad, before he can really be termed a holdout.

Sluggish Heath, the only Indian besides Lou Boudreau whose contract contained a substantial pay raise, has not yet commented on the second offer the Tribe made.

Bob Frierson, outfielder who signed Wednesday, has been optioned to Wilkes-Barre, Peckinpaugh said, and will not go south with the Indians.

DURHAM BASEBALL CLUB TO ASSIST WAR EFFORT

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 20.—The Durham baseball club of the Piedmont league fell in line today with its parent club, the Brooklyn Dodgers, with the announcement that it will contribute substantially in a variety of ways to the nation's war effort.

President Bascom Baynes said the Durham club's program for the 1942 season, and the training period, would include:

1. Donation of Durham's receipts for one home game to some national service agency and cooperation with any other club on the road for the same purpose.
2. Purchase of defense bonds and stamps by every member and employee of the club from president to bat boy and the donation of the club's facilities, including radio accounts of the games, in promotion of the sale of defense bonds and stamps.
3. Playing of exhibition games

OPEN LETTERS

TO ARMY ELIGIBLES

MEN: Uncle Sam is engaged in a difficult task, that of fighting ruthless foes on far away soil, and before this struggle is over he may be calling on all of us for some kind of assistance. The other day the draft board announced that more than 3,000 district men between ages of 20 and 45, all previously unregistered, had signed up for any type of work that Uncle Sam might find them capable of performing. Many of them will never go, but many will. The last few days have brought statements from draft officials, nationally and locally, that reclassification is soon to take place, and that many persons who are now in deferred classes may soon find themselves bearing arms. Many who thought themselves exempt from service may no longer be left at home to carry on as usual. Uncle Sam has a tremendous task, and he needs every one of us to help him in one way or another. I urge every one to discount rumors and reports concerning what is going on. I urge everyone to do everything he can to further the nation's cause, by buying defense stamps and bonds, by assuming an optimistic attitude rather than a pessimistic one, by keeping quiet if he knows of anything that might be considered military information, such as where a cousin or a friend who is in service might have been sent in the last few days. A war is being waged, and sacrifices are, and will be, necessary from now on. Many may be called to the colors, and some who are summoned may think that the man next door should have been called up instead of him, but my plea to every one is that he take everything as a matter of course. A war is a war, and Uncle Sam must win it. You can help him.

CIRCUITEER.

TO AUTOISTS

DRIVERS: A new epidemic has struck Circleville, and I am afraid that some day soon some one will be sorry that he has been making u-turns with his car in the middle of the block. More and more has this practice been growing in the Circleville business area, and more and more dangerous it becomes. U-turns are bad enough at any time, but between two intersections they are exceedingly hazardous. The fact that Court street has recently been made a parallel-parking area has made it more attractive for motorists who do not have time to drive around the block but would rather swing their autos around in the middle of this heavily-traveled thoroughfare. When angle parking was effective the street was not so wide, but there were some drivers who even then u-turned to save time, even at their own risk and the risk of others. Do not be a bit surprised if a police department order goes out in the next few days to order into court persons detected turning their cars in the middle of the block. All drivers would be much more considerate if they would observe this safety measure.

CIRCUITEER.

TO TALMER WISE

SIR: It is popular these days to talk of sacrifices for country, for freedom and for democracy, but in many instances those who do the most talking are those who are least affected by the war, and those who have the least chance of getting into it. By continuing as Circleville's fire chief it is doubtful that you would have been called into service in the near future. Your choice to join the civil service mechanics at Pearl Harbor was not the easiest way out for you, nor is the compensation sufficiently large to justify the risks you take. Undoubtedly you knew that before you made application for such a position. Still, you saw in such work a chance to use your experience where it would do Uncle Sam the most good.

CIRCUITEER.

TO R. L. BREHMER

SIR: At Thursday's Rotary luncheon meeting you were presented a twenty-year button and certificate, an indication that you have never missed a Rotary meeting in the last twenty years. That button and certificate are the symbols of all those things for which Rotary stands in the community. They signify community service for the last twenty years, a service which has continued week after week without break, and through that service you have held the respect of your fellow Rotarians and the community you serve. Your continued service in the local club will reflect in added benefits for your city, state and nation.

CIRCUITEER.

TO DISTRICT FARMERS

FRIENDS: Circleville Chamber of Commerce is asking elaborate arrangements for its annual Corn and Soybean show to be conducted March 5 in Memorial hall. It should be a splendid one, and I believe that cooperation from every person interested is assured. The Circleville organization is putting up some splendid cash prizes, awards that will be well worth your striving to win. Corn and soybean entries will be judged with fairness and impartiality, and I hope that scores of you will enter some of your products. Not only will the show be interesting, but the banquet being planned for the evening of the show should attract a capacity throng.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

THE TRUTH is that we WANT some spies according to some few congressional critics of our anti-espionage activities, such as those of the Dies committee and various other investigational bodies.

Melvyn Douglas

These commentators don't contend that enemy agents, operating among us, oughtn't to be detected and dealt with up to a maximum of their deserts. Their opinion is, however, that the public considers spying one of wartime's incidentals and feels that we're entitled to our fair share of it and are being neglected unless it's provided by the folk we're in arms against.

It's spoken of as similar to the popular demand for our due allowance of war's hardships and sacrifices. People were expecting 'em, they're rather slow in starting 'em, pinch and there's a deal of wondering what's the matter with 'em. In short, participation in the conflict isn't as thrilling yet as had been anticipated and there's a good bit of impatience evident, on our citizenry's part, to have the excitement start.

Spies are supposed to be part of it.

Daylight saving, called "war time" by President Roosevelt, is another part—not particularly sensational, but proclaimed nationally, and a nuisance, according to my personal idea. To save my life, I can't see why it wouldn't have been just as effective to bid everybody get up an hour earlier in the morning, without moving our clock hands ahead, but probably it would have been more prosaic than it was to defy sunrise and sunset.

Plenty of Commotion
There's been enough commotion over the Office of Civilian Defense's inclusion of glamour boys and girls in its setup, anyway.

Of course the right way would have been to put 'em on a $1-per-year basis. No fault could have been found with that. Putting 'em on salaries running up into three or four annual thousands each was what made their employment vulnerable, though I don't suppose that three or four yearly thousands seem, to those high-priced glamorites, to amount to appreciably more than a single plunk apiece at the end of every twelvemonth.

They sound bigger, though, to us ordinary income taxpayers and are a good talking point to us, from congressmen who want to take a jab at the OGD outfit.

Incidentally, it was unfortunate that Mrs. Roosevelt was associated with the OGD's management just when she was. She's a woman of great driving power and undoubtedly was very helpful in organizing the agency's service, but her connection with it, at the special juncture when the outcry was raised over the glamorites' stipends, can't but have been very embarrassing, not only to the OGD, but to the White House.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's retirement from the OGD directorship, precisely when it was announced, was unlucky likewise. He had already arranged to quit, for being mayor of New York and OGD director simultaneously was too much of a chore for anybody even with his tremendous energy, quite a while before the glamour uproar broke out. Nevertheless, his departure with the glamour howl exactly at its height did tend to give the impression that he was taking it on account of disapproval of the glamorites.

Congressmen who don't overly like the administration have made the most of it.

Douglas Hits Back

Lawmakers who have done so haven't altogether escaped some return cracks by the glamorites, however. One of 'em is Melvyn Douglas, the screen star. I heard him make a speech the other day, in the course of which he more than hinted that the complaining legislators were bawling out glamorites mainly with a view to diverting attention from congressional pensions and "bundles for congressmen."

I've had occasion to mention the OGD—initialized.

And I've had previous occasion to speak of the popular initialization of these emergency agencies' names until you've no notion what anybody's talking about.

Well, the other day I ran across this new sample.

Mrs. Clara Genhard Snyder, chairman of the HEWBED of the AHEA, said something or other. How'd anybody know that that means the Home Economics Women in Business Division of the American Home Economics Association? I had to start a regular investigation to get the done on it.

DIET AND HEALTH

Death Rate of Men and Women In Some Diseases Compared

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I DO NOT know whether it is a habit that is stronger among doctors than other people, but it is certainly strong among them to say, when they have a patient with a certain condition, "Well, I hope I never get that," or, "I hope I don't die from that."

While, of course, nobody can tell in an individual instance, statistical tables are able to give you a rough idea of your chances of dying of one or another kind of disease. The two principal factors which determine this in most diseases are age and sex.

Accidents are the least variable. If you are a white female, you have exactly the same chance of dying of an accident when you are one day old as when you are seventy years old. The line runs straight across. You are just as liable, and no more so, at the ages of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, or fifty. A white male has the same chance of getting killed in an accident at the age of thirty, forty, fifty or sixty as a white female. Up to the age of ten he runs more risk.

Age a Factor
In disease of the heart, kidneys and blood pressure, age is a great factor and sex plays a very little part. The chance of death from any of these conditions is very small up to the age of twenty, it rises slightly from the ages of twenty to thirty and then takes a sharp turn upward so that at the age of sixty in both males and females, the chances are about 625 per 1,000 population that when you die you will die from one of this group of diseases.

Cancer has both an age and a sex distribution. Chances of dying of some malignant tumor are about the same in the male and in the female up to the age of twenty. After that the female far outruns the male. After the age of fifty, chances of a male's dying of cancer decrease but the female's remain about the same, the proportion being 125 to 1,000.

Tuberculosis shows an age distribution, but just the opposite of cancer. The worst period is from birth to the age of twenty. In both the male and female, at this age period, the chances are about 25 out of 1,000 that you will die of tuberculosis. After that there is a sharp drop so that at the age of sixty, chances are about 6 out of 1,000 that you will die of tuberculosis.

Women and Diabetes

Diabetes is, for some reason, a little more common in the female than in the male. The chance of a female up to the age of twenty-five dying of diabetes is about 35 out of 1,000, while those of a male are about 20 out of 1,000.

Well, there you are. You really haven't very much choice in the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. M.:—Will you please explain what "hypertension" means and what should be done to relieve this condition?

Answer: Hypertension means high blood pressure. It is usually considered to be a blood pressure over 160 mm. of mercury. The only valuable treatment is the regulation of life so that anything which causes tension and spasm of the arteries will be eliminated.

M. H.: What is the cause of occasional discharges of light brown specks or small lumps from the throat followed by bloody sputum? I had a negative reaction in a recent tuberculosis test.

Answer: Probably chronic follicular tonsillitis with the discharge of cheesy plugs from the crypts of the tonsils.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

KURT HURRIED Molla and Neil out on deck and up toward the bridge, making sure they were hidden at all times from a low, gray cutter that was bearing down on them a couple of miles off the port bow.

A high wind whistled through the superstructure of the vessel, making progress difficult as the ship plunged through heavy seas. The muffled Molla had tied loosely around her head whipped free and blew off. She grabbed for it, but it escaped.

"Never mind," Kurt ordered. "You will not need that."

They reached the bridge. "You have your papers, you know your story?" Kurt said to the captain. The latter nodded and puffed lazily on his pipe, watching the cutter approach.

"Good . . . very well, you two." He led Molla and Neil down some steps and through another passageway. He opened a door and rang for the self-operated ship's elevator. Ten feet up he stopped the car, opened the door. When they got out they were in a large, empty space with nothing but a few empty boxes lying on the floor.

"Sit down and say nothing," he ordered. They sat down and Kurt took out his revolver, held it loosely in his hand and attached a small device.

"This is a silencer," he said succinctly.

"If you're boarded they'll search this tub from top to bottom," Neil ventured quietly.

Kurt grinned. "I don't believe they will board us. Probably they merely want to ask us some questions. However, should they come aboard they will have not the slightest indication that this vessel has a dummy smokestack. We are within that stack right now."

Neil looked around quickly. "Need I say," Kurt added, his eyes narrowing, "that the slightest sound on your part will prove fatal."

The ship was almost at a complete stop now. They could hear a muffled voice from a megaphone floating across the water. A little later they heard the putt-putt of a small boat coming alongside and someone calling, presumably to the captain on the bridge.

Kurt Wilhelm tensed. "So—they do come aboard."

Tay Whitworth clambered up the ladder right behind the young coast guard officer. "I feel like a pirate boarding an old Spanish galleon."

Thanks for letting me come along, Lieutenant. This is fun."

"Hardly fun," the G-man, Bennett, said behind him. Three sailors brought up the rear.

The lieutenant saluted the ship's second officer. "May I see the captain, please?"

"Certainly. Here he comes now." The bearded one shuffled forward, his hands behind him, his pipe belching furious clouds of smoke.

"What is the trouble—what is this, please?"

The lieutenant saluted. "Sorry, Captain. Your name and ship?"

"Captain Johann Van Steen of the Zuyder Zee, formerly of Rotterdam. Before May, 1940, that is," he added with a wry face.

The coast guard officer smiled slightly. "I understand."

"We're bound for New York from Martinique with lumber, rubber and coffee," Captain Van Steen said easily. "Now then, can we be of any assistance?"

The G-man, Bennett, perked up his ears. "Martinique, eh?"

"We ran across some floating wreckage of a small boat about 15 miles back. We were looking for the people whom we believed were in that boat. Have you seen anyone in any sort of launch or small cruiser in the last couple of hours? Did you hear any explosion? We can't account for the wreckage we found."

The bearded Captain Van Steen shrugged his shoulders and looked at his second officer. "Sorry, we have not. We have sighted nobody. The people you are seeking, Lieutenant—they are, are dangerous people?"

The lieutenant said nothing, but his eyes moved easily over the deck. He felt a small pressure of the G-man's hand against his side.

"Mind if we take a quick look at your cargo, Captain?"

The captain raised his eyebrows slightly and shrugged again. "But of course not. I will send two men with you."

The lieutenant, the G-man and one of the sailors went with Van Steen's second officer and another man. Tay walked up forward to take an interested look at the immense anchor chain which was strung on deck. Captain Van Steen watched him for a moment and then turned to talk to the other two sailors who stood near the Jacob's ladder.

Suddenly Tay straightened up, his eyes coming to rest on a winch a few feet down the deck. He stood looking down for a moment at the piece of bright colored wool cloth that was wrapped around a stake, half of it whipping in the wind. He bent down casually and fingered it, looking at the pattern. His brow furrowed as he straightened up again.

Tay sauntered back to the two sailors and Captain Van Steen. A few moments later the coast guard officer returned from his inspection. The lieutenant saluted. "Sorry to have troubled you, Captain, but I'm merely under orders to search every vessel between here and New York harbor."

Van Steen took his pipe out of his mouth and smiled toothily through his beard. "Of course," he murmured.

Neil sat watching Kurt Wilhelm closely. "Tell me, Wilhelm," Neil said. "Just how did it happen that this ship was nearly so conveniently?"

"I don't mind at all. This ship did not merely 'happen' to be coming by. We were to stop Captain Van Steen to give him some verbal orders before his ship got to New York. I see no harm in telling you these things because—well, it will make no difference."

"So, he's one of your rats, eh?" Kurt's jaw muscles tightened visibly. "You are hardly in a position to be calling people names, my dear Mr. Lundquist."

"You're a rat, Wilhelm," Neil repeated evenly.

"You are taxing my generosity," Kurt said ominously. "You are not to be eliminated until we get to New York. However, if you insist, we can arrange it more quickly."

Suddenly there was a knock at the door. Kurt tensed. Then someone called to him in German and Kurt relaxed. He opened the door and spoke to a seaman.

"Your friends have left," Kurt said over his shoulder, slipping the silencer off his pistol and dropping it into his pocket. "Come."

But another sailor rushed up just then and spoke excitedly. Kurt frowned and cursed under his breath.

"Back inside, please," he said to Molla and Neil. Molla managed to whisper a few words to Neil as Kurt spoke again to the second sailor.

"The men from the coast guard are returning to the ship for some reason," she said quickly.

Kurt sat down, his hand resting on his gun butt inside his pocket. He eyed them coldly. Suddenly Neil remembered that Kurt had neglected to put the silencer back on his pistol.

OPEN LETTERS

TO ARMY ELIGIBLES

MEN: Uncle Sam is engaged in a difficult task, that of fighting ruthless foes on far away soil, and before this struggle is over he may be calling on all of us for some kind of assistance. The other day the draft board announced that more than 3,000 district men between ages of 20 and 45, all previously unregistered, had signed up for any type of work that Uncle Sam might find them capable of performing. Many of them will never go, but many will. The last few days have brought statements from draft officials, nationally and locally, that reclassification is soon to take place, and that many persons who are now in deferred classes may soon find themselves bearing arms. Many who thought themselves exempt from service may no longer be left at home to carry on as usual. Uncle Sam has a tremendous task, and he needs every one of us to help him in one way or another. I urge every one to discount rumors and reports concerning what is going on. I urge everyone to do everything he can to further the nation's cause, by buying defense stamps and bonds, by assuming an optimistic attitude rather than a pessimistic one, by keeping quiet if he knows of anything that might be considered military information, such as where a cousin or a friend who is in service might have been sent in the last few days. A war is being waged, and sacrifices are, and will be, necessary from now on. Many may be called to the colors, and some who are summoned may think that the man next door should have been called up instead of him, but my plea to every one is that he take everything as a matter of course. A war is a war, and Uncle Sam must win it. You can help him.

CIRCUITEER.

TO AUTOISTS

DRIVERS: A new epidemic has struck Circleville, and I am afraid that some day soon some one will be sorry that he has been making u-turns with his car in the middle of the block. More and more has this practice been growing in the Circleville business area, and more and more dangerous it becomes. U-turns are bad enough at any time, but between two intersections they are exceedingly hazardous.

ous. The fact that Court street has recently been made a parallel-parking area has made it more attractive for motorists who do not have time to drive around the block but would rather swing their autos around in the middle of this heavily-traveled thoroughfare. When angle parking was effective the street was not so wide, but there were some drivers who even then u-turned to save time, even at their own risk and the risk of others. Do not be a bit surprised if a police department order goes out in the next few days to order into court persons detected turning their cars in the middle of the block. All drivers would be much more considerate if they would observe this safety measure.

CIRCUITEER.

TO TALMER WISE

SIR: It is popular these days to talk of sacrifices for country, for freedom and for democracy, but in many instances those who do the most talking are those who are least affected by the war, and those who have the least chance of getting into it. By continuing as Circleville's fire chief it is doubtful that you would have been called into service in the near future. Your choice to join the civil service mechanics at Pearl Harbor was not the easiest way out for you, nor is the compensation sufficiently large to justify the risks you take. Undoubtedly you knew that before you made application for such a position. Still, you saw in such work a chance to use your experience where it would do Uncle Sam the most good.

CIRCUITEER.

TO R. L. BREHMER

SIR: At Thursday's Rotary luncheon meeting you were presented a twenty-year button and certificate, an indication that you have never missed a Rotary meeting in the last twenty years. That button and certificate are the symbols of all those things for which Rotary stands in the community. They signify community service for the last twenty years, a service which has continued week after week without break, and through that service you have held the respect of your fellow Rotarians and the community you serve. Your continued service in the local club will reflect in added benefits for your city, state and nation.

CIRCUITEER.

TO DISTRICT FARMERS

FRRIENDS: Circleville Chamber of Commerce is asking elaborate arrangements for its annual Corn and Soybean show to be conducted March 5 in Memorial hall. It should be a splendid one, and I believe that cooperation from every person interested is assured. The Circleville organization is putting up some splendid cash prizes, awards that will be well worth your striving to win. Corn and soybean entries will be judged with fairness and impartiality, and I hope that scores of you will enter some of your products. Not only will the show be interesting, but the banquet being planned for the evening of the show should attract a capacity throng.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

THE TRUTH is that we WANT

some spies, according to some few congressional critics of our anti-espionage activities, such as those of the Dies committee and various other investigational bodies. These commentators don't contend that enemy agents, operating among us, oughtn't to be detected and dealt with up to a maximum of their deserts. Their opinion is, however, that the public considers spying one of wartime's incidents and feels that we're entitled to our fair share of it and are being neglected unless it's provided by the folk we're in arms against.

It's spoken of as similar to the popular demand for our due allowance of war's hardships and sacrifices. People were expecting em, they're rather slow in starting to pinch and there's a deal of wondering what's the matter with em. In short, participation in the conflict isn't as thrilling yet as had been anticipated and there's a good bit of impatience evident, on our citizenry's part, to have the excitement start.

Spies are supposed to be part of it. Daylight saving, called "war time" by President Roosevelt, is another part—not particularly sensational, but proclaimed nationally, and a nuisance, according to my personal idea. To save my life, I can't see why it wouldn't have been just as effective to bid everybody get up an hour earlier in the morning, without moving our clock hands ahead, but probably it would have been more prosaic than it was to defy sunrise and sunset.

Plenty of Commotion
There's been enough commotion over the Office of Civilian Defense's inclusion of glamour boys and girls in its setup, anyway.

Of course the right way would have been to put 'em on a $1-per-year basis. No fault could have been found with that. Putting 'em on salaries running up into three or four annual thousands each was what made their employment vulnerable, though I don't suppose that three or four yearly thousands seem, to those high-priced glamourites to amount to appreciably more than a single plunk apiece at the end of every twelvemonth.

They sound bigger, though, to us ordinary income taxpayers and are a good talking point to us, from congressmen who want to take a jab at the OCD outfit.

Incidentally, it was unfortunate that Mrs. Roosevelt was associated with the OCD's management just when she was. She's a woman of great driving power and undoubtedly was very helpful in organizing the agency's service, but her connection with it, at the special juncture when the outcry was raised over the glamourites' stipends, can't but have been very embarrassing, not only to the OCD, but to the White House.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's retirement from the OCD directorship, precisely when it was announced, was unlucky likewise. He had already arranged to quit, for being mayor of New York and OCD director simultaneously was too much of a chore for anybody even with his tremendous energy, quite a while before the glamour uproar broke out. Nevertheless, his departure with the glamour howl exactly at its height did tend to give the impression that he was taking it on account of disapproval of the glamourites.

Congressmen who don't overly like the administration have made the most of it.

Douglas Hits Back

Lawmakers who have done so haven't altogether escaped some return cracks by the glamourites, however. One of 'em is Melvyn Douglas, the screen star I heard him make a speech the other day, in the course of which he more than hinted that the complaining legislators were bawling out glamourites mainly with a view to diverting attention from congressional pensions and "bundles for congressmen."

Oh, spies and lagging wartime hardships aren't the only subjects that Washington's discussing. The capital's in quite a general ferment.

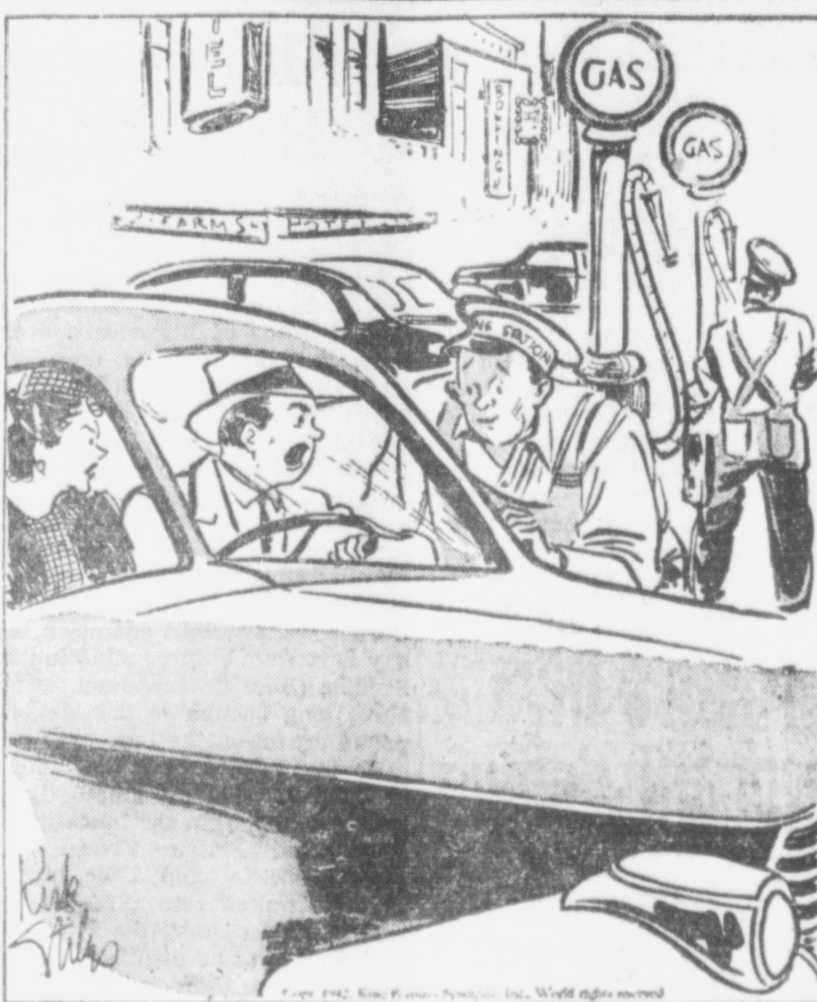

I've had occasion to mention the OCD—initialized.

And I've had previous occasion to speak of the popular initialization of these emergency agencies' names until you've no notion what anybody's talking about.

Well, the other day I ran across this new sample:

Mrs. Clara Genhard Snyder, chairman of the HEWED of the AHEA, said something or other. How'd anybody know that that means the Home Economics Women in Business Division of the American Home Economics Association? I had to start a regular investigation to get the done on it.

Death Rate of Men and Women In Some Diseases Compared

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I DO NOT know whether it is a habit that is stronger among doctors than other people, but it is certainly strong among them to say, when they have a patient with a certain condition, "Well, I hope I never get that," or, "I hope I don't die from that."

While, of course, nobody can tell in an individual instance, statistical tables are able to give you a rough idea of your chances of dying of one or two kind of disease. The two principal factors which determine this in most diseases are age and sex.

Accidents are the least variable. If you are a white female, you have exactly the same chance of dying of an accident when you are one day old as when you are seventy years old. The line runs straight across. You are just as liable, and no more so, at the ages of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, or fifty. A white male has the same chance of getting killed in an accident at the age of thirty, forty, fifty or sixty as a white female. Up to the age of ten he runs more risk.

Age a Factor

In disease of the heart, kidneys and blood pressure, age is a great factor and sex plays a very little part. The chance of death from any of these conditions is very small up to the age of twenty, it rises slightly from the ages of twenty to thirty and then takes a sharp turn upward so that at the age of sixty in both males and females, the chances are about 625 per 1,000 population that when you die you will die from one of this group of diseases.

Cancer has both an age and a sex distribution. Chances of dying of some malignant tumor are about the same in the male and in the female up to the age of twenty. After that the female far outruns the male. After the age of fifty, chances of a male's dying of cancer decrease but the female's remain about the same, the proportion being 125 to 1,000.

Tuberculosis shows an age distribution, but just the opposite of cancer. The worst period is from birth to the age of twenty. In both the male and female, at this age period, the chances are about 25 out of 1,000 that you will die of tuberculosis. After that there is a sharp drop so that at the age of sixty, chances are about 6 out of 1,000 that you will die of tuberculosis.

Women and Diabetes

Diabetes is, for some reason, a little more chancey in the female than in the male. The chance of a female up to the age of twenty-five dying of diabetes is about 35 out of 1,000, while those of a male are about 20 out of 1,000.

Well, there you are. You really haven't very much choice in the

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. M.:—Will you please explain what "hypertension" means and what should be done to relieve this condition?

Answer: Hypertension means high blood pressure. It is usually caused by a blood pressure over 150 mm. of mercury. The only valuable treatment is the regulation of life so that anything which causes tension and spasm of the arteries will be eliminated.

M. H.: What is the cause of occasional discharges of light brown specks or small lumps from the throat followed by bloody sputum? I had a negative reaction in a recent tuberculosis test.

Answer: Probably chronic follicular tonsillitis with the discharge of cheesy plugs from the crypts of the tonsils.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

KURT HURRIED Molla and Neil out on deck and up toward the bridge, making sure they were hidden at all times from a low, gray cutter that was bearing down on them a couple of miles off the port bow.

A high wind whistled through the superstructure of the vessel, making progress difficult as the ship plunged through heavy seas. The muffled Molla had tied loosely around her head whipped free and blew off. She grabbed for it, but it escaped.

"Never mind," Kurt ordered. "You will not need that."

They reached the bridge. "You have your papers, you know your story?" Kurt said to the captain. The latter nodded and puffed lazily on his pipe, watching the cutter approach.

"Good . . . very well, you two."

He led Molla and Neil down some steps and through another passage. He opened a door and rang for the self-operated ship's elevator. Ten feet up he stopped the car, opened the door. When they got out they were in a large, empty space with nothing but a few empty boxes lying on the floor.

"Sit down and say nothing," he ordered. They sat down and Kurt took out his revolver, held it loosely in his hand and attached a small device.

"This is a silencer," he said succinctly.

"If you're boarded they'll search this tub from top to bottom," Neil ventured quietly.

Kurt grinned. "I don't believe they will board us. Probably they merely want to ask us some questions. However, should they come aboard they will have not the slightest indication that this vessel has a dummy smokestack. We are within that stack right now."

Neil looked around quickly. "Need I say," Kurt added, his eyes narrowing, "that the slightest sound on your part will prove fatal."

The ship was almost at a complete stop now. They could hear a muffled voice from a megaphone floating across the water. A little later they heard the putt-putt of a small boat coming alongside and someone calling, presumably to the captain on the bridge.

Kurt Wilhelm tensed. "So—they do come aboard."

Tay Whitworth clambered up the ladder right behind the young coast guard officer. "I feel like a pirate boarding an old Spanish galleon."

Thanks for letting me come along, Lieutenant. This is fun."

"Hardly fun," the G-man, Bennett, said behind him. Three sailors brought up the rear.

The lieutenant saluted the ship's second officer. "May I see the captain, please?"

"Certainly. Here he comes now." The bearded one shuffled forward, his hands behind him, his pipe belching furious clouds of smoke.

"What is the trouble—what is this, please?"

The lieutenant saluted. "Sorry, Captain. Your name and ship?"

"Captain Johann Van Steen of the Zuyder Zee, formerly of Rotterdam. Before May, 1940, that is," he added with a wry face.

The coast guard officer smiled slightly. "I understand."

"We're bound for New York from Martinique with lumber, rubber and coffee," Captain Van Steen said easily. "Now then, can we be of any assistance?"

The G-man, Bennett, perked up his ears. "Martinique, eh?"

"We ran across some floating wreckage of a small boat about 15 miles back. We were looking for the people whom we believed were in that boat. Have you seen anyone in any sort of launch or small cruiser in the last couple of hours? Did you hear any explosion? We can't account for the wreckage we found."

The bearded Captain Van Steen shrugged his shoulders and looked at his second officer. "Sorry, we have not. We have sighted nobody. The people you are seeking, Lieutenant—they—ah, are dangerous people."

The lieutenant said nothing, but his eyes moved easily over the deck. He felt a small pressure of the G-man's hand against his side.

"Mind if we take a quick look at your cargo, Captain?"

The captain raised his eyebrows slightly and shrugged again. "But of course not. I will send two men with you."

The lieutenant, the G-man and one of the sailors went with Van Steen's second officer and another man. Tay walked up forward to take an interested look at the immense anchor chain which was strung on deck. Captain Van Steen turned him for a moment and then turned to talk to the other two sailors who stood near the Jacob's ladder.

Suddenly Tay straightened up, his eyes coming to rest on a winch a few feet down the deck. He stood looking down for a moment at the piece of bright colored wool cloth that was wrapped around a stake, half of it whipping in the wind. He bent down casually and fingered it, looking at the pattern. His brow furrowed as he straightened up again.

Tay sauntered back to the two sailors and Captain Van Steen. A few moments later the coast guard officer returned from his inspection. The lieutenant saluted. "Sorry to have troubled you, Captain, but I'm merely under orders to search every vessel between here and New York harbor."

Van Steen took his pipe out of his mouth and smiled toothily through his beard. "Of course," he murmured.

Neil sat watching Kurt Wilhelm closely. "Tell me, Wilhelm," Neil said. "Just how did it happen that this ship was nearby so conveniently?"

"I don't mind at all. This ship did not merely 'happen' to be coming by. We were to stop Captain Van Steen to give him some verbal orders before his ship got to New York. I see no harm in telling you these things because—well, it will make no difference."

"So, he's one of your rats, eh?" Kurt's jaw muscles tightened visibly. "You are hardly in a position to be calling people names, my dear Mr. Lundquist."

"You're a rat, Wilhelm," Neil repeated evenly.

"You are taxing my generosity," Kurt said ominously. "You are not to be eliminated until we get to New York. However, if you insist, we can arrange it more quickly."

Suddenly there was a knock at the door. Kurt tensed. Then someone called to him in German and Kurt relaxed. He opened the door and spoke to a seaman.

"Your friends have left," Kurt said over his shoulder, slipping the silencer off his pistol and dropping it into his pocket. "Come."

But another sailor rushed up just then and spoke excitedly. Kurt frowned and cursed under his breath.

"Back inside, please," he said to Molla and Neil. Molla managed to whisper a few words to Neil as Kurt spoke again to the second sailor.

"The men from the coast guard are returning to the ship for some reason," she said quickly.

Kurt sat down, his hand resting on his gun butt inside his pocket. He eyed them coldly. Suddenly Neil remembered that Kurt had neglected to put the silencer back on his pistol.

VITAMINS Electric Cooking Preserves Them

NATURE PROVIDES THEM

Vitamins will vanish if you don't cook your foods properly. One scientist estimates that the cooked fruits and vegetables many Americans eat daily contain less than one-half the vitamins they had when purchased.

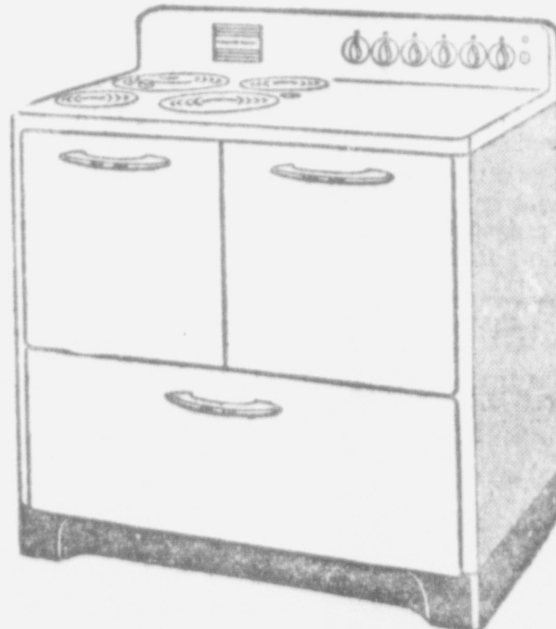

You can retain these vitamins if you follow these simple rules:

- (1) Cook as quickly as possible.
- (2) Use little or no water
- (3) Bake vegetables in their skins

The Electric Range has been scientifically designed for "vitamin" cooking. Its measured heat permits using little or no water. Foods start cooking faster and cook in a shorter time. Electrically cooked foods taste better and are better for you!

This is no time for luxury buying. If you don't need a new range don't buy it; BUY DEFENSE BONDS.

It is false economy, though, to continue to use wasteful, worn out equipment. If you need a new range, see the General Electric Ranges on display today.

Savings Stamp And Bond Sale Heavy In City

Banks Selling Average Of $30,000 Monthly; Post Office Busy

Circleville's four banks are selling an average of more than $30,000 worth of defense savings stamps and bonds each month.

Since the United States' entry into the war, local sale of stamps and bonds has shown a marked increase, with some individuals buying bonds of high denominations. Circleville Savings and Banking company reported that sales totaled about $10,000 in January and said they were running about the same this month.

At First National bank, $10,500 worth of stamps and bonds were sold last month and sales for February already are $2,000 ahead of January's.

Second National bank sold $8,100 during January and reported that sales this month also were good, while Third National bank reported sales of $10,000 for January and said that since the campaign opened it has sold about $70,000 worth of stamps and bonds.

Circleville postoffice reported sales of $2,400 worth of bonds and $1,565 worth of stamps during January. Purchase of stamps and bonds there also has shown a marked increase since the outbreak of the war, according to Postmaster Hulise Hays.

LUTHERAN MEN HOLD ANOTHER CONTEST EVENT

Group three of Trinity Lutheran brotherhood put on its number of the talent contest Thursday night in the parish house.

Carl C. Leist, chairman of the group, served as the schoolmaster of the "Scatter Brain Prep School," with Luther J. List, Roy Stout, Harry Barthelmas, Robert Bower, H. M. Crites, John Eitel, R. D. Good, Jacob Hatz, John Himrod, Harry Kern, C. A. Leist, L. V. Martin, Herbert Melvin, F. Clifton Reichelderfer, Joseph Scharenberg, P. W. Smallwood, D. L. Tracy and Clarence Wolf enrolled as pupils.

At roll call, six of the boys and girls were absent, owing to grippe, influenza and other childhood ailments.

The session was given over to a special program in honor of the proposed district superintendent, who in fact never put in his appearance. The dress of the pupils of the school ranged anywhere from comical to grotesque.

In keeping with these patriotic times, little "Royena" Stout, the teacher's pet, was called on to read "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address"; Johnny Himrod following with a composition on George Washington.

Herbert Melvin, attired as little "Herbertina" was called on to display his knowledge of the W.P.A., O.P.M. and other lettered organizations of the government.

Luther J. List, dressed in his typical school boy outfit as little "Johnny," scored high on information in his discourse and demonstration of the "American Flag."

R. D. Good came in next with his "Guess Who" questions to the other boys and girls of the entire school.

H. Crites was called on for his talk on "Uncle Sam" and he gave many interesting facts on the origin of the term, this being followed with a reading on the "Star Spangled Banner" by Harry Barthelmas.

District Superintendent Clinton Augustus Leist, being unable to attend the session, sent in his message to be read by the teacher, thus imparting some valuable information on the "Bill of Rights."

One of the features of the program was the word drill in which various pupils were called on to spell, pronounce and define various words, some of which were Jap, blitzkrieg, sabotage, Nazi, bottle neck, fascist, sansorigines, Mussolini, protege, admiral and general.

The program was closed by the entire school singing "My Country 'tis of Thee," the bugle accompaniment being played by H. M. Crites.

The lunch committee was headed by E. E. Wolf and during the intermission after the business session, served hot beef sandwiches and coffee.

The fourth and last number of the talent contest will be given Thursday evening, March 5 with Gladden Troutman, chairman, and John W. Walters and Ed Sensenbrenner as co-chairman.

The two teams grading lowest in the series will furnish a banquet, the second highest will furnish the after dinner program and the winning team will be the guests of honor at the meeting of March 19.

The contest is being judged by W. E. Hilyard, Leslie L. Pontious and F. K. Blair.

FOUR DIE FROM POISONING; TEN OTHERS TO LIVE

SAN LUIS, Colo., Feb. 20—Physicians today expressed hope for the recovery of 10 persons stricken by deadly botulism poisoning which already has taken four lives in the aftermath of a birthday party for 12-year-old Esperanza Olivas.

At least three of the 10 still were in serious condition, but anti-botulism serum rushed to this southern Colorado hamlet from Denver was believed to have checked the poison.

Fourteen of the 20 persons who gathered at the ranch home of Cornelia Olivas four miles east of San Luis Sunday afternoon were taken ill that night but did not become alarmed "until much too late," Coroner R. C. Diaz said.

The program was closed by the entire school singing "My Country 'tis of Thee," the bugle accompaniment being played by H. M. Crites.

The lunch committee was headed by E. E. Wolf and during the intermission after the business session, served hot beef sandwiches and coffee.

Ships In Indian Ocean

From Calcutta came word that the Japs already are seeking to reap the fruits of the conquest of Singapore and have swung their warships into the Indian ocean. The Daily Mail in London reported from Calcutta that powerful Japanese warships are said to be operating in the Bay of Bengal, possibly preparing to attack Rangoon from the sea. Ceylon also took cognizance of the threat to India, tightening up its defenses while Sir Andrew Caldecott, governor of Ceylon, warned that "the eyes of the world are on us."

Other famous oriental places famed in song and story were caught in the spreading dragnet of conflict as the Jap offensive still fanned out like the arms of an octopus.

One was Mandalay, immortalized by Kipling as a rendezvous for British Tommies, "where the flyin' fishes play."

Japan claimed that Jap bombers had bombed Mandalay and that military installations there had been seriously damaged.

Simultaneously American land, sea and air forces were fighting back furiously against increasing axis thrusts in two oceans.

In the southwest Pacific U. S. Army pursuit planes were taking to the air in increasing numbers to challenge Jap planes attacking the Dutch East Indies.

U-Boats Sought
At home Army and Navy forces were pressing their search for enemy U-boats as a result of yesterday's axis submarine raids on shipping off the Dutch West Indies and at Trinidad.

Exactly what is happening at Timor was not known for the moment. But it was presumed that the Dutch and British forces that occupied that island several months ago to guard against Jap aggression were in action against the swarming invaders from Nippon.

The wording of the Batavia announcement regarding Bali—that the Japs were "attempting to land"—indicated a hot skirmish was in progress there.

From Batavia came word that Bandung, inland Java city, had been attacked yesterday by Japanese planes which caused "some damage." One of the raiders probably was shot down by Dutch fighters.

On the Burma front, heavy fighting raged along the Billin river as the British sought to drive out Japanese units which had landed on the river's west bank. There was a report that two new Jap divisions have reached the Burma front.

Cabinet Juggled
In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill streamlined his war cabinet, cutting it down to seven men. Lord Beaverbrook resigned as production minister and will come to the United States to work on the project of pooling resources of the united nations.

Sir Stafford Cripps, former British envoy to Moscow, and Oliver Lyttelton, war supply genius, were named to new posts in the reconstructed British war regime.

Fighting raged with unabated ferocity on the Russian front. Latest advices from Moscow said the Germans counter-attacked, heavily supported by tanks, but were hurled back by the Red army, which kept up its steady advance.

The Russians recaptured Kresty, 65 miles north of Smolensk. Nazi losses on all fronts were termed extremely heavy.

TRUCKERS VOLUNTEER GUARD AGAINST SABOTEURS

E. A. Hills

The truckers who roll over all the major highways of the nation have fallen into line behind the war effort, in addition to the valuable job they are doing of transporting war materials, they now have come forth with a plan to act as a highway patrol auxiliary, watching the vital bridges, communication lines, warehouses and docks for indications of sabotage and traces of saboteurs. E. A. Hills, in-set, editor of the trucking industry's magazine, "Go," has offered to the Office of Civilian Defense the Truck Patrol plan, by which the drivers would volunteer, attend classes for instruction and operate under the directions and orders of government officials. Their assignment would be to keep a constant watch in those strategic areas into which their jobs take them for persons and actions inimical to the nation's interests.

ing tasks to the ministry of defense.

Defects Still Prevail

The London News Chronicle commented that the prime minister "has chosen the democratic method of solving the problem that confronted him and he is stronger today than yesterday by reason of it." But it added that the cabinet "still retains serious defects in organization" and that it "introduces new men but not as yet new methods."

Cripps was given the post of lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons. Lyttelton was made minister of state, taking over the war production duties of Lord Beaverbrook, whose resignation was tendered because of his health.

Another important change was the designation of Clement Attlee, former lord privy seal, as dominions secretary and deputy prime minister. The war cabinet was reduced from nine to seven members. Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, were dropped from the war cabinet but retain their posts in the government.

The new 7-man war cabinet includes: Winston Churchill, prime minister and minister of defense.

Sir John Anderson, lord president of the council (same post he previously held).

Anthony Eden, minister of foreign affairs (same post he previously held).

Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons.

Clement Attlee, minister of dominion affairs and deputy premier. (He was formerly privy seal).

Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, minister of state.

Ernest Bevin, minister of labor and national service (same post he previously held).

PARIS KEATON TO WIN PAROLE FROM OHIO PEN
The state pardon and parole commission Friday granted a parole to Paris Keaton, Circleville route 3, confined in the Ohio penitentiary on a charge of shooting with intent to wound. The parole becomes effective April 1. Keaton was arrested December 24, 1939 after a shooting episode at the home of C. C. McCreary, one mile east of Circleville. Officers said the shooting took place after a domestic argument.

Illustrated Talks On Fish

Each of the seven district offices of the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources has been provided with a set of slides, with an accompanying outline for a talk to go with the slides, covering various subjects in fish management, showing native Ohio fish and many other subjects of interest to fishermen.

Fish managements and others connected with the fish management section will, with these slides, be able to give more "local" touch to fish management problems than motion pictures, prepared for state-wide distribution, could provide. The slides and outlines for the talks were prepared by E. L. Wickliffe of the fish management section and Walter Lauffer of the public relations section.

Brush Piles Aid Wildlife
Brush piles made by winter wood cutting on farm woodlots are valuable in providing winter shelter and food for wildlife.

Not only do brush piles provide protection for rabbits, pheasants, grouse and other small game against the weather and afford refuge from foxes, hawks and other predators but they also provide palatable food for rabbits and reduce the tendency of the animals to feed on the bark of live trees.

Brush piles placed in gullies also help to halt soil erosion. Large brush piles, up to five feet high and 15 feet in diameter, are recommended.

Farm Ponds
Farmers and landowners are taking an increased interest in the building of farm ponds and small dams, according to the Ohio division of conservation.

The three chief uses of farm ponds are for stock water, fire protection and irrigation.

Not only do farm ponds make better farms and aid conservation by helping to keep up the water table in Ohio, but they assist the farmer in paying his taxes by reducing tax assessments. Under the Ohio water storage law any landowner outside municipality limits who constructs a dam on his land and complies with all requirements of the law shall be entitled to a reduction on the assessed valuation of the tract of land on which the

Savings Stamp And Bond Sale Heavy In City

Banks Selling Average Of $30,000 Monthly; Post Office Busy

Circleville's four banks are selling an average of more than $30,000 worth of defense savings stamps and bonds each month.

Since the United States' entry into the war, local sale of stamps and bonds has shown a marked increase, with some individuals buying bonds of high denominations.

Circleville Savings and Banking company reported that sales totaled about $10,000 in January and said they were running about the same this month.

At First National bank, $10,500 worth of stamps and bonds were sold last month and sales for February already are $2,000 ahead of January's.

Second National bank sold $8,100 during January and reported that sales this month also were good, while Third National bank reported sales of $10,000 in January and said that since the campaign opened it has sold about $70,000 worth of stamps and bonds.

Circleville postoffice reported sales of $2,400 worth of bonds and $1,565 worth of stamps during January. Purchase of stamps and bonds there also has shown a marked increase since the outbreak of the war, according to Postmaster Hulse Hays.

LUTHERAN MEN HOLD ANOTHER CONTEST EVENT

Group three of Trinity Lutheran brotherhood put on its number of the talent contest Thursday night in the parish house.

Carl C. Leist, chairman of the group, served as the schoolmaster of the "Scatter Brain Prep School," with Luther J. List, Roy Stout, Harry Barthelmas, Robert Bower, H. M. Crites, John Eitel, R. D. Good, Jacob Hatz, John Himrod, Harry Kern, C. A. Leist, L. V. Martin, Herbert Melvin, I. Clifton Reichelderfer, Joseph Scharenberg, P. W. Smallwood, D. L. Tracy and Clarence Wolf enrolled as pupils.

At roll call, six of the boys and girls were absent, owing to grippe, influenza and other childhood ailments.

The session was given over to a special program in honor of the proposed district superintendent, who in fact never put in his appearance. The dress of the pupils of the school ranged anywhere from comical to grotesque.

In keeping with these patriotic times, little "Royena" Stout, the teacher's pet, was called on to read "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address"; Johnny Himrod following with a composition on George Washington.

Herbert Melvin, attired as little "Herbertina" was called on to display his knowledge of the W.P.A., O.P.M. and other lettered organizations of the government.

Luther J. List, dressed in his typical school boy outfit as little "Johnny," scored high on information in his discourse and demonstration of the "American Flag."

R. D. Good came in next with his "Guess Who" questions to the other boys and girls of the entire school.

H. Crites was called on for his talk on "Uncle Sam" and he gave many interesting facts on the origin of the term, this being followed with a reading on the "Star Spangled Banner" by Harry Barthelmas.

District Superintendent Clinton Augustus Leist, being unable to attend the session, sent in his message to be read by the teacher, thus imparting some valuable information on the "Bill of Rights."

One of the features of the program was the word drill in which various pupils were called on to spell, pronounce and define various words, some of which were Jap, blitzkrieg, sabotage, Nazi, bottle neck, fascist, sansorigines, Mussolini, protege, admiral and general.

The program was closed by the entire school singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," the bugle accompaniment being played by H. M. Crites.

The lunch committee was headed by E. E. Wolf and during the intermission after the business session, served hot beef sandwiches and coffee.

The fourth and last number of the talent contest will be given Thursday evening, March 5 with Gladden Troutman, chairman, and John W. Walters and Ed Sensenbrenner as co-chairman.

The two teams grading lowest in the series will furnish a banquet, the second highest will furnish the after dinner program and the winning team will be the guests of honor at the meeting of March 19.

The contest is being judged by W. E. Hilyard, Leslie L. Pontious and F. K. Blair.

FOUR DIE FROM POISONING; TEN OTHERS TO LIVE

SAN LUIS, Colo., Feb. 20.—Physicians today expressed hope for the recovery of 10 persons stricken by deadly botulism poisoning which already has taken four lives in the aftermath of a birthday party for 12-year-old Esperanza Olivas.

At least three of the 10 still were in serious condition, but anti-botulism serum rushed to this southern Colorado hamlet from Denver was believed to have checked the poison.

Fourteen of the 20 persons who gathered at the ranch home of Cornelio Olivas four miles east of San Luis Sunday afternoon were taken ill that night but did not become alarmed "until much too late," Coroner R. C. Diaz said.

the ultimate attempt to land invasion troops on that continent.

Ships In Indian Ocean
From Calcutta came word that the Japs already are seeking to reap the fruits of the conquest of Singapore and have swung their warships into the Indian ocean. The Daily Mail in London reported from Calcutta that powerful Japanese warships are said to be operating in the Bay of Bengal, possibly preparing to attack Rangoon from the sea. Ceylon also took cognizance of the threat to India, tightening up its defenses while Sir Andrew Caldecott, governor of Ceylon, warned that "the eyes of the world are on us."

Other famous oriental places famed in song and story were caught in the spreading dragnet of conflict as the Jap offensive still fanned out like the arms of an octopus.

One was Mandalay, immortalized by Kipling as a rendezvous for British Tommies, "where the flyin' fishes play."

Japan claimed that Jap bombers had bombed Mandalay and that military installations there had been seriously damaged.

Simultaneously American land, sea and air forces were fighting back furiously against increasing axis thrusts in two oceans.

In the southwest Pacific U. S. Army pursuit planes were taking to the air in increasing numbers to challenge Jap planes attacking the Dutch East Indies.

U-Boats Sought
At home Army and Navy forces were pressing their search for enemy U-boats as a result of yesterday's axis submarine raids on shipping off the Dutch West Indies and at Trinidad.

Exactly what is happening at Timor was not known for the moment. But it was presumed that the Dutch and British forces that occupied that island several months ago to guard against Jap aggression were in action against the swarming invaders from Nippon.

The wording of the Batavia announcement regarding Bali—that the Japs were "attempting to land"—indicated a hot skirmish was in progress there.

From Batavia came word that Bandung, inland Java city, had been attacked yesterday by Japanese planes which caused "some damage." One of the raiders probably was shot down by Dutch fighters.

On the Burma front, heavy fighting raged along the Bilin river as the British sought to drive out Japanese units which had landed on the river's west bank. There was a report that two new Jap divisions have reached the Burma front.

Cabinet Juggled
In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill streamlined his war cabinet, cutting it down to seven men. Lord Beaverbrook resigned as production minister and will come to the United States to work on the project of pooling resources of the United Nations.

Sir Stafford Cripps, former British envoy to Moscow, and Oliver Lyttelton, war supply genius, were named to new posts in the reconstructed British war regime.

Fighting raged with unabated ferocity on the Russian front. Latest advices from Moscow said the Germans counter-attacked, heavily supported by tanks, but were hurled back by the Red army, which kept up its steady advance.

The Russians recaptured Kresty, 65 miles north of Smolensk. Nazi losses on all fronts were termed extremely heavy.

Keaton was arrested December 24, 1939 after a shooting episode at the home of C. C. McCreary, one mile east of Circleville. Officers said the shooting took place after a domestic argument.

New Brunswick was discovered by Jacques Cartier in 1534. He sailed from St. Malo, France to the New World.

TRUCKERS VOLUNTEER GUARD AGAINST SABOTEURS

The truckers who roll over all the major highways of the nation have fallen into line behind the war effort, in addition to the valuable job they are doing of transporting war materials, they now have come forth with a plan to act as a highway patrol auxiliary, watching the vital bridges, communication lines, warehouses and docks for indications of sabotage and traces of saboteurs. E. A. Hills, in-set, editor of the trucking industry's magazine, "Go," has offered to the Office of Civilian Defense the Truck Patrol plan, by which the drivers would volunteer, attend classes for instruction and operate under the directions and orders of government officials. Their assignment would be to keep a constant watch in those strategic areas into which their jobs take them for persons and actions inimical to the nation's interests.

Defects Still Prevalent
The London News Chronicle commented that the prime minister "has chosen the democratic method of solving the problem that confronted him and he is stronger today than yesterday by reason of it." But it added that the cabinet "still retains serious defects in organization" and that it "introduces new men but not as yet new methods."

Cripps was given the post of lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons. Lyttelton was made minister of state, taking over the war production duties of Lord Beaverbrook, whose resignation was tendered because of his health.

Another important change was the designation of Clement Attlee, former lord privy seal, as dominions secretary and deputy prime minister. The war cabinet was reduced from nine to seven members. Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, were dropped from the war cabinet but retain their posts in the government.

The new 7-man war cabinet includes: Winston Churchill, prime minister and minister of defense. Sir John Anderson, lord president of the council (same post he previously held). Anthony Eden, minister of foreign affairs (same post he previously held). Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons. Clement Attlee, minister of dominion affairs and deputy premier. (He was formerly privy seal). Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, minister of state. Ernest Bevin, minister of labor and national service (same post he previously held).

Illustrated Talks On Fish

Each of the seven district offices of the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources has been provided with a set of slides, with an accompanying outline for a talk to go with the slides, covering various subjects in fish management, showing native Ohio fish and many other subjects of interest to fishermen.

Fish management and other connected with the fish management section will, with these slides, be able to give more "local" touch to fish management problems than motion pictures, prepared for state-wide distribution, could provide. The slides and outlines for the talks were prepared by E. L. Wickliffe of the fish management section and Walter Lauffer of the public relations section.

Brush Piles Aid Wildlife

Brush piles made by winter wood cutting on farm woodlots are valuable in providing winter shelter and food for wildlife.

Not only do brush piles provide protection for rabbits, pheasants, grouse and other small game against the weather and afford refuge from foxes, hawks and other predators but they also provide palatable food for rabbits and reduce the tendency of the animals to feed on the bark of live trees.

Brush piles placed in gullies also help to halt soil erosion. Large brush piles, up to five feet high and 15 feet in diameter, are recommended.

Farm Ponds

Farmers and landowners are taking an increased interest in the building of farm ponds and small dams, according to the Ohio division of conservation.

The three chief uses of farm ponds are for stock water, fire protection and irrigation.

Not only do farm ponds make better farms and aid conservation by helping to keep up the water table in Ohio, but they assist the farmer in paying his taxes by reducing tax assessments. Under the Ohio water storage law any landowner outside municipality limits who constructs a dam on his land and complies with all requirements of the law shall be entitled to a reduction on the assessed valuation of the tract of land on which the
